

There Is More Than One Way To Be Pro-Israel

Brit Tzedek v'Shalom, the Jewish Alliance for Justice and Peace, has a different vision.

Brit Tzedek is a national organization of American Jews deeply committed to Israel's strength and well-being through the achievement of a negotiated settlement to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. We are guided by the mitzvah to pursue peace and justice that is central to both secular and religious Jewish traditions. We believe the vast majority of Israelis and Palestinians long for an enduring peace and that security for Israel can only be achieved through the establishment of an economically and politically viable Palestinian state, necessitating an end to Israel's occupation of land acquired in the 1967 war.

Brit Tzedek provides a platform for American Jews to articulate their belief that the ongoing conflict threatens Israel's security, severely damages its economy, degrades the mission and morale of its armed forces, and erodes the values on which a democratic society stands. We know that many American Jews share this perspective, but are reluctant to express themselves for fear they may bring harm to Israel and the Jewish people.

Through education, advocacy, building local chapters, and work with the media, we seek to generate greater dialogue within the American Jewish community and to return U.S. foreign policy toward a more active role in promoting a just and enduring peace.

Come – Get To Know Us

Reception, Wednesday, November 20, 5-8 pm, suite 662 at the Downtown Marriott, 1201 Market Street.

Or drop by hospitality suite 662 on Wednesday afternoon or Thursday.

All GA delegates and members of the press are invited to meet former Knesset Member Marcia Freedman, President of Brit Tzedek, and Cherie Brown, Vice President, at our reception.

www.btvshalom.org